Story

Down with Mangar the Wicked

It is the time of swords and magic. In a distant world there is a town called Skara Brae. The town had prospered, thanks to many years of peace, and the lively voices of the people enjoying a rich life could be heard throughout the town.

Mangar, the evil sorcerer came, and with his strong magical power turned the town of Skara Brae into a world of winter. The town that had been so peaceful suddenly turned into a town gripped by fear, with monsters lurking. Many people were annihilated, and of those who survived, most abandoned the town.

But the brave ones who remained in the town were courageous. They came in one after another and gathered at the Adventurers' Guild on Main Street to fight against Mangar's evil power.

The Elder said to the brave ones, "My people: Kylearan, the virtuous, legendary wizard who protects this town, tried to fight Mangar. But Mangar's evil power locked him up in the tower in the northeast of town. "Kylearan has the key to the tower where Mangar lives. If we could find Kylearan and get the key, we could slip into the tower without Mangar even knowing. Maybe then we could reopen the town."

The brave ones were inspired. They would band together to save their town, and some challengers were ready to rush the beleagured town. But beware! There are very few safe places in Skara Brae: the pub, protected by the Bard's mysterious voice, and the temple, which is protected by the Deity.

Here are the Six Professions:

Warrior

He is a soldier, proud of his extraordinary physical strength and muscular power. He can use every weapon and defense tool. But he has no magical power.

Hunter

He is a master swordsman and tactician. Most reliable in times of battle. Because of his quick movement, he doesn't use any especially heavy weapons or defense tools. He cannot use magic.

Sorcerer

He is a magic specialist. Since he has little physical strength, the only weapons he carries are a staff and rope. But his spiritual power is a great help to the challenge.

Rogue

His special qualities are his quick movement and skillful hands. For this reason he only carries lightweight weapons and defense tools. He can't use magic but is good at removing traps.

Bard

He is a poet who loves poems and peace. Given a musical instrument, his voice takes on a mysterious magic. An important character, who could be called the hero of this story.

Wizard

He is also a magic specialist. He mixes things and creates many kinds of super-magic. Like the sorcerer, there are only a few weapons or defense tools he can carry.

Traits That Show the Character's Strength

After you have selected the character's profession, push Button A, and the screen displays the character's traits. If not, "No" will bring you back to Menu 2 and you can choose "Create" again.

Name the Party

In the window under the screen is a list of the challengers' names. Give this party a name. Select "Name Party" and push Button A. A list of letters will appear on the screen. Use Magic

There are basically two types of magic: the illusionary type, employed by the sorcerer, and the physical type, used by the wizard. Each has a level according to the complexity of the magic. To use their magic spells, the character must achieve a certain level and pass a test by a council (see page). The amount of MP (Magic Power) used up by the magic spell varies, but if MP is zero, you cannot use any magic.

The Log Book of a Hero — The Proper Way to Challenge

I have decided to go back again. Many of my friends and family have perished. Skara Brae is now a ghost town and I can't take it anymore. If it's possible, I would like to be remembered as a brave Bard.

Many of my colleagues gathered at the Adventurers' Guild. We put together a small group that would start working underground so that the enemy would be unaware of our movements. The group was composed of 6 members, including me, each with a different profession.

When we left the Adventurers' Guild we first headed for Garth's Equipment Shop to get weapons and defense equipment. Since we didn't have much money, we could only get cheap things. But I got a horn as well as weapons. This will enable me, the Bard, to use magic. Once we got outside, we armed ourselves.

We looked around carefully as we walked around the town. Suddenly we came upon a group of goblins. These monsters attacked us. The members of our party got angry, and the knight at the lead cut off a goblin's head. I sang "Freeze Voice" as loud as I could.

The air took on a chill and we finished off the goblins. Their faces quivered and their feet were stuck to the ground. The warrior's hatchet let out a groan, and sparks came out of the wizard's fingers. The enemy was destroyed. My voice had become hoarse.

We went back to the council near the Adventurers' Guild. When we told them what happened, the council members raised all of our levels. We were so lucky to be able to achieve this with just one battle. In addition, the wizard and sorcerer were awarded new kinds of magic.

After we left the council, we went to a nearby pub to celebrate our first victory. I refreshed my dry throat with root beer. I really wanted cider, but this pub didn't have any.

We returned to Garth's Equipment Shoppe. We talked, and decided to reconnoiter the town, which had changed so much. We prepared ourselves and headed for town.
